

With Kubotek's Software Maintenance Program, you are eligible to receive upgrades of the latest versions of Kubotek software, live technical support during posted hours, as well as requested software enhancements. In addition to online customer support access for software licensing information, you get unlimited access to our online Kubotek University, as well as a home-use license for eligible software products.

What You Get

The Latest Software Releases	As a customer with active Software Maintenance, you are eligible to download the newest versions of Kubotek software that are released during your maintenance period. Take advantage of the latest technology to speed your development and manufacturing process. Gain competitive advantage through increased productivity and save money from costly software update purchases in the future.
Software Upgrades	Receive service pack upgrades to current and previous software releases. Service packs contain enhancements to the current versions and enhancement requests reported by you, our customers.
Updated Translators	Keep current with your software's extensive import capabilities and interoperability updates with access to the latest software releases and the most up-to-date file formats supported.
Live technical support	Access technical support directly from the experts! There is no middle-man. You contact us directly at our Marlborough, Massachusetts headquarters. We will help you with questions via phone, email, online chat and web-based video conferencing. Help can range from product features, licensing and installation and a range of other issues and questions that can occur throughout your daily software use.
Kubotek University	Kubotek University provides hundreds of resources, detailed lessons, and other quick hints for Kubotek products - available 24/7. Topics range from basic instruction to more in-depth, advanced subjects. This online source for valuable training materials is provided tuition free to active Software Maintenance customers.
Home-Use License	Need to take work home with you? No problem. Active Software Maintenance customers receive a home-use license for their eligible software products.
Kubotek Customer Support Site	Regardless of your Kubotek Software Maintenance status, everyone gets 24/7 access to account and software licensing information. Easily access your eligible product downloads, freely move licenses around, and get critical information regarding your account.
